When we hear the term politics, we usually think of the government, politicians and political parties. For a country to have an organised government and work as per specific guidelines, we require a certain organisation. This is where politics come in, as it essentially forms the government. Every country, group and organisation use politics to instrument various ways to organise their events, prospects and more.

Politics does not limit to those in power in the government. It is also about the ones who are in the run to achieve the same power. The candidates of the opposition party question the party on power during political debates. They intend to inform people and make them aware of their agenda and what the present government is doing. All this is done with the help of politics only.

Dirty politics refers to the kind of politics in which moves are made for the personal interest of a person or party. It ignores the overall development of a nation and hurts the essence of the country. If we look at it closely, there are various constituents of dirty politics.

The ministers of various political parties, in order to defame the opposition, spread fake news and give provocative speeches against them. This hampers with the harmony of the country and also degrades the essence of politics. They pass sexist remarks and instill hate in the hearts of people to watch their party win with a majority of seats.

Furthermore, the majority of politicians are corrupt. They abuse their power to advance their personal interests rather than that of the country. We see the news flooded with articles like ministers and their families involving in scams and illegal practices. The power they have makes them feel invincible which is why they get away with any crime.

Before coming into power, the government makes numerous promises to the public. They influence and manipulate them into thinking all their promises will be fulfilled. However, as soon as they gain power, they turn their back on the public. They work for their selfish motives and keep fooling people in every election. Out of all this, only the common suffers at the hands of lying and corrupt politicians.

If we look at the scenario of African elections, any random person with enough power and money can contest the elections. They just need to be a citizen of the country and in most cases be at least 25 years old. There are few clauses to which are very easy.

The strangest thing is that contesting for elections does not require any minimum education qualification. This, we see how so many uneducated and non-deserving candidates get into power and then misuse it endlessly. A country with uneducated ministers cannot develop or even be on the right path.

We need educated ministers badly in the government. They are the ones who can make the country progress as they will handle things better than illiterate ones. The candidate must be well-qualified in order to take on a big responsibility as running an entire nation. In short, we need to save our country from corrupt and uneducated politicians who are no less than parasites eating away the development growth of the country and its resources. All of us must unite to break the wheel and work for the prosperous future of our country.

Read the passage below and then answer questions 26 to 38.

My mother had one eye. I hated her because she was such an embarrassment. She ran a small shop at a flea market. She collected little weeds and such to sale...anything for the money we needed was such an embarrassment.

There was this one day when I was still in primary school. It was a field day and my mother came. I was so embarrassed. How could she do this to me? I threw her a hateful look and ran out. The next day at school almost everyone taunted me, "Your mom only has one eye!"

I wished that my mother would just disappear from this world so I said to her, "Mom, why don't you have the other eye? You are only going to make me a laughing stock. Why don't you just die?" My mom did not respond but I didn't think I had hurt her feelings very badly.

That night I woke up and went to the kitchen to get a glass of water. My mom was crying there so quietly, as if she was afraid that she might wake me. I took a look at her and then turned away. Because of the things I had said to her earlier, there was something pinching at me in the corner of my heart. Even so, I hated my mother who was crying out of her one eye. So I told myself that I would grow up and become successful because I hated my one-eyed mom and our desparate poverty.

Then I studied really hard. I left my mother and came to Seoul and studied and got accepted in the Seoul University with all the confidence I had. Then, I got married and bought a house of my own. Then I had kids too. The place did not remind me of my mother.

This happiness was getting bigger and bigger when someone came to see me.

"What! Who is this?" It was my mother still with her one eye. I felt as if the whole sky was falling apart on me. My little girl ran away, scared of my mom's eye.

And I asked her, "Who are you? I don't know you!" As if I tried to make that real. I screamed at her, "How dare you come to my house and scare my daughter! Get out of here now!"

And to this, my mother quietly answered, "Oh, I'm sorry. I may have got the wrong address," and she disappeared. Thank goodness she doesn't recognise me. I was quite relieved. I told myself that I wasn't going to care or think about this for the rest of my life.

One day, a letter regarding a school reunion came to my house. I lied to my wife saying that I was going on a business trip. After the reunion, I went down to the old shack that I used to call a house just out of curiosity. There, I found my mother fallen on the cold floor. But I did not shed a single tear. She had a piece of paper in her hand. It was a letter to me.

She wrote:

Dear son,

I think my life has been long enough now and I won't visit Seoul anymore but would it be too much to ask if I wanted you to come visit me once in a while? I miss you so much.

I heard that you were coming for the reunion but I decided not to go to the school because I didn't want to embarass you.

You see, when you were very young you got into an accident and lost your eye. As a mother, I couldn't stand watching you having to grow up with only one eye, so I gave you mine.

I was so proud of my son that was seeing a whole new world for me in my place with that eye. I was never upset at you for anything you did. The couple of times you were angry with me I thought to myself, "It's because he loves me."

I miss the times when you were still young around me. I miss you so much. I love you. You mean the world to me.

My world shattered. I hated the person who only lived for me. I cried for my mother. I didn't know of any way that would make up for my worst deeds...
