Read the passage below and answer questions 31 – 40.

Once upon a time, there lived a man called Mugo and his wife Maithori. They had no children, which made them very sad. Every day they prayed God to bless them with a child. They had a large herd of cattle which Mugo had to look after alone. As the years passed, their hopes of having a child grew dimmer.

One day, Mugo's wife had a baby son. The family was very happy. At last God, giver of everything, had heard their prayers. They called their son Simon.

Simon was an obedient boy. He grew up to be polite and friendly to everyone. His parents were proud of him. It was the custom in Mugo's village that every boy had to graze his father's cattle in clearing in the neighbouring forest. However, Simon's parents did not allow him to go out as he was their only child.

When the chief learned this, he was so annoyed with Mugo and sent for him at once. "I understand you have refused to allow your son to go with other boys to the field," he said.

"I have not refused," Mugo replied. "As you know, Simon is our only child. I prefer to go to the field myself instead of sending him there."

This remark made the chief very angry. He ordered Simon to join other herdsboys straight away. Sadly, Mugo went home and told the whole story to his wife. She was sad too but she said, "since those are the chief's orders, Simon must join the other boys."

TURN OVER

The following day, Simon drove his father's herd to the fields. As soon as he got there, the other boys discovered that Simon did not know how to look after the cattle. They were cruel, and chased him away. He hid in a nearby forest waiting for the evening. Unhappily, he soon fell asleep and did not wake up before it was dark. When he finally woke up, Simon started to look for the way home. He soon realized that he was lost. As he was wandering about, he felt that someone was near him. He looked round and saw a man in a striped robe and a white turban staring at him. The man promised to take him home. Soon they were on their way.

They walked silently through the forest until dawn. Finally they came to a market place. Soon the man grabbed and tied his hands. Before long, Simon was sold and became a slave in a distant place.
