"What are we having to eat tonight?" asked Noel. "I feel hungry". "soup," said mother. "I've got a lot of vegetables and I'm going to make some very nice soup. I wonder whether your uncle, Joseph, is coming today." She went on, I expected he will. He came three times last week, and each time he arrived just as food was being cooked. The money your father earns is only just enough to feed our own family, and the last time, Joseph came. we all had to have less, but he always stays until he is offered something to eat. I wish he did not come so often.

If he arrives today and tastes this lovely food, he will probably keep on coming more often than before. "I know" said Noel. "When he comes we'll tell him we haven't got any food at all today then perhaps he'll stop coming here and go somewhere else. "Hodi, hodi," said a voice 'oh, hello, Joseph!" "We were just thinking about you, weren't we children? What happened? You're earlier than usual" "I was passing by" said uncle Joseph. "So I thought I'd come in and see how the children were. I 'd heard it said that Noel is ill and. I wouldn't like a relation of mine to think I didn't care about her. By the way" he went on . "I thought you would be busy cooking.

What are you having to eat today? I'm not sure whether there'll be any food cooked at our house this evening. "Well that's the trouble." Said the children's mother. "We've eaten all the food I bought yesterday and there is nothing at all left for today. I don't know what my husband will say when he comes home and gets nothing to eat. He always likes his food put out as soon as he arrives. Isn't it terrible!"

Ferdie the frog sat on a water lily leaf in the middle of the pond and wrinkled up his nose. He was thinking and he always wrinkled up his nose when he was thinking. Tomorrow was going to be sports day in the pond where he lived and he had very much wanted to win a prize.

Because he was a frog and had very long, strong, back legs he could win the jumping prize quite easily. But he had won the prize the previous year. Now Ferdie set his eyes on a different prize.

Among the things he loved most was singing or croaking as some people would like to call it. In his happiest moments he would sing until tears stood in his eyes and his voice went hoarse. Deep down in his broad froggy chest, he had one wish. He longed to be asked to sing with the croaking choir boys, fareous for miles around as the best frog singers.

He sat on his leaf and watched, all the other creatures of the pond practising for the sports. The fish were twisting and turning for swimming races. The ducks took dives in turns to see who stayed under water the longest. Some dragon flies were swimming along the top of the water like speedboats and a crowd of butterflies were practising their flying relay race.

On the morning of the sports day, a happy Ferdie put his name down for the singing and climbed onto the platform with other singers. Flamingo and geese and sun birds; there was even a duck who sang a comic song and made everyone laugh. Then, just as a sparrow was about to finish a very pretty song, came Ferdie frog's turn, and he was clearing his throat ready to start his song when a great shadow fell over him. He locked up only to find an enormous bird coming straight at him. But it was not a singing bird. It was Suddenly he found himself in a circle of other frogs all clapping and croaking because he had jumped higher and longer than anyone else in the long distance jumping competition!

So far the second year running he had won the jumping prize! He also made up a special croak song against herons, and that night he sang it to a crowd of admiring frogs who jumped up and down with delight. (Adopted from sports day at the pond in stories from Rainbow Collins 1964)
